

A Happy And Prosperous New Year

Ant. Student To Tour Europe

Janis Miklausch, daughter of Mrs. A. Miklausch, 707 Lake St., Antioch, and a senior at North Central College in Naperville, will tour Europe Jan. 5-25 as part of an NCC sponsored "January in Great Britain" project.

The program is one phase of North Central's Mid-Winter Study and Research Term. The college operates under a unique academic calendar in which the fall semester ended Dec. 18, and the spring semester doesn't begin until Feb. 3. This leaves January free for special study-research projects for qualified students.

Janis will arrive in London on Jan. 5 after a flight from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport. In addition to Janis, the group will include nineteen other NCC students and five faculty and staff members serving as advisors.

The group will spend two weeks,

Coventry, Birmingham, Stratford-on-Avon, and Oxford.

On Jan. 19 the students, with their advisors, will fly to Paris. After touring Paris they will motor to Chartres and Versailles. They then return briefly to Paris before traveling on to Amsterdam on the 22nd. After two days in Amsterdam they will return to the United States, departing from Amsterdam airport.

Janis, an Antioch High School graduate, is a political science/history major at North Central, a fully accredited, coeducational, liberal arts college located 29 miles west of Chicago.

70 ACHS Students Lauded

Seventy Antioch High School students were listed today on the high honor roll for the first six weeks of the year.

The figure included nine seniors, 20 juniors, 23 sophomores and 18 freshmen.

Those who attained the honor roll included 42 from the senior class, 27 from the junior class, 38 from the sophomores and 42 from the freshmen.

In order to qualify for the high honor roll a student must have a grade no lower than a B and those who are on the regular honor roll, grades must not sink below a C. Those who made the high honor roll include:

Personal Property Bonanza

Have you heard fewer friends bragging lately about how they escaped paying the personal property tax? It could be they are now quietly paying it!

Assistant State's Attorney Warren Behr, head of the delinquent tax department for Lake County, says a total of $153,827 was collected between August 22 and November 30 this year. Over $26,800 was paid in November alone after lawsuits were filed against delinquent taxpayers.

Behr says the largest amount collected by his department in any single month this year was $64,000, brought in during April. The average for the year is between $12,000 and $15,000 per month.

Most of the suits filed were against delinquencies dating back to 1960, although Behr says next year they will move up to 1962. Some people, he said, think they are safe from paying long-overdue taxes by a statute of limitations. However, he points out there is none in Illinois.

There is another consideration regarding delinquent taxpayers. Next time you hear one brag about "getting away with it for years", think of the taxes you have paid; recall how you have supported your schools, your park district; how your tax dollars have helped build and maintain roads, operate the county and its medical facilities, acquire new forest preserves; remember how your tax dollars make it possible for us to have modern sewage disposal, and operate cities with their police and fire protection.

All these things are paid out of taxes. If your friends brag about not paying, they have no right to complain about local government because they aren't supporting it. YOU are!

People who brag about "getting away with it" aren't heroes, they are drags; they're takers, not contributors to a better city or village, county or state.

7 Antioch Area Drivers Lose Licenses

Seven Antioch area residents have lost their driver's licenses, Secretary of State Paul Powell announced today.

Two persons lost their licenses for driving while intoxicated. They are Billy L. Woodral, of 1808 Woodlane, Lake Villa, and Constance L. Wright, 813 2nd St., Gages Lake.

Losing their licenses for three violations were Johnny R. Kimberlin, RFD 2, Box 610A, Lake Villa, William E. Parr, 404 Wayside, Lake Villa, David R. Strang, 1002 Spafford St., Antioch, and Jerome J. Ziellinski, RFD 1, Box 564, Antioch.

Michael F. Davis, 600 N. Lincoln, Lake Villa, had his license lifted for driving while the license or permit was suspended or revoked.

Clavey Asks Crackdown On Teen Glue-Sniffers

Coroner Orville S. "Pat" Clavey has called for a crackdown on glue sniffers and urges parents and teachers to be on the alert for symptoms.

Clavey said, "We could possibly save a life by teaching those in positions of authority to look for tell-tale signs of glue sniffing."

Plan Tells Erosion Safeguard

Do you have a conservation plan to reduce soil erosion on your land? Russ Gwaltney, chairman of the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, tells us that Lake County landowners have such a plan.

Gwaltney said that Richard L. Duesterhaus of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Lake Zurich will be glad to help you develop a conservation plan. He can show you several ways to hold erosion to a minimum, and you can choose the method most adaptable to your farming operation.

This assistance with conservation planning is a free service to cooperators of your Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District," said Gwaltney.

District Chairman Gwaltney stressed the need for conservation planning on all land.

"It's not only farm land that erodes," he said. "Building sites and other construction areas are also ripe for erosion."

The conservationist pointed out that eroded soil leaves a problem, gullies and unfertile fields, where it comes from, and creates a problem, silted up streams, reservoirs and culverts, where it goes.

A typical conservation plan for this area might include a pond, grass waterways, plantings for wildlife food and protection, temporary seeding of construction sites, a system for leaving crop residues on the soil surface during winter and spring, reduced tillage, contour farming and terraces, tile drainage, and tree planting.

Gwaltney urged landowners who have a conservation problem to stop by or call the Soil Conservation Service office this winter. While there, sign up to become a district cooperator and get your planning done when you're not so busy with other operations.

The address is 71 South Old Road, Lake Zurich, or call 438-6319.

The Coroner said two deaths have been attributed to the habit in Lake County already, "and we don't want any more," he said. According to authorities, glue will kill, maim, retard a youngster. Nationally there have been hundreds of cases reported each year.

New York City alone had nearly 800 cases of glue sniffing in one twelve month period.

Coroner Clavey warned parents to be on the lookout for the type glue used for constructing plastic model cars, boats or airplanes.

It normally has some ether content and a highly pungent odor. The signs to look for: Is the child buying large quantities of glue?

Has the child given the impression of being "high" or intoxicated?

Have you noticed slurred speech?

Did you detect a strange odor on the breath?

Have there been extraordinary tendencies of aggression?

Inhalant fumes from the glue sometimes causes double vision, hallucinations and a ringing in the ears.

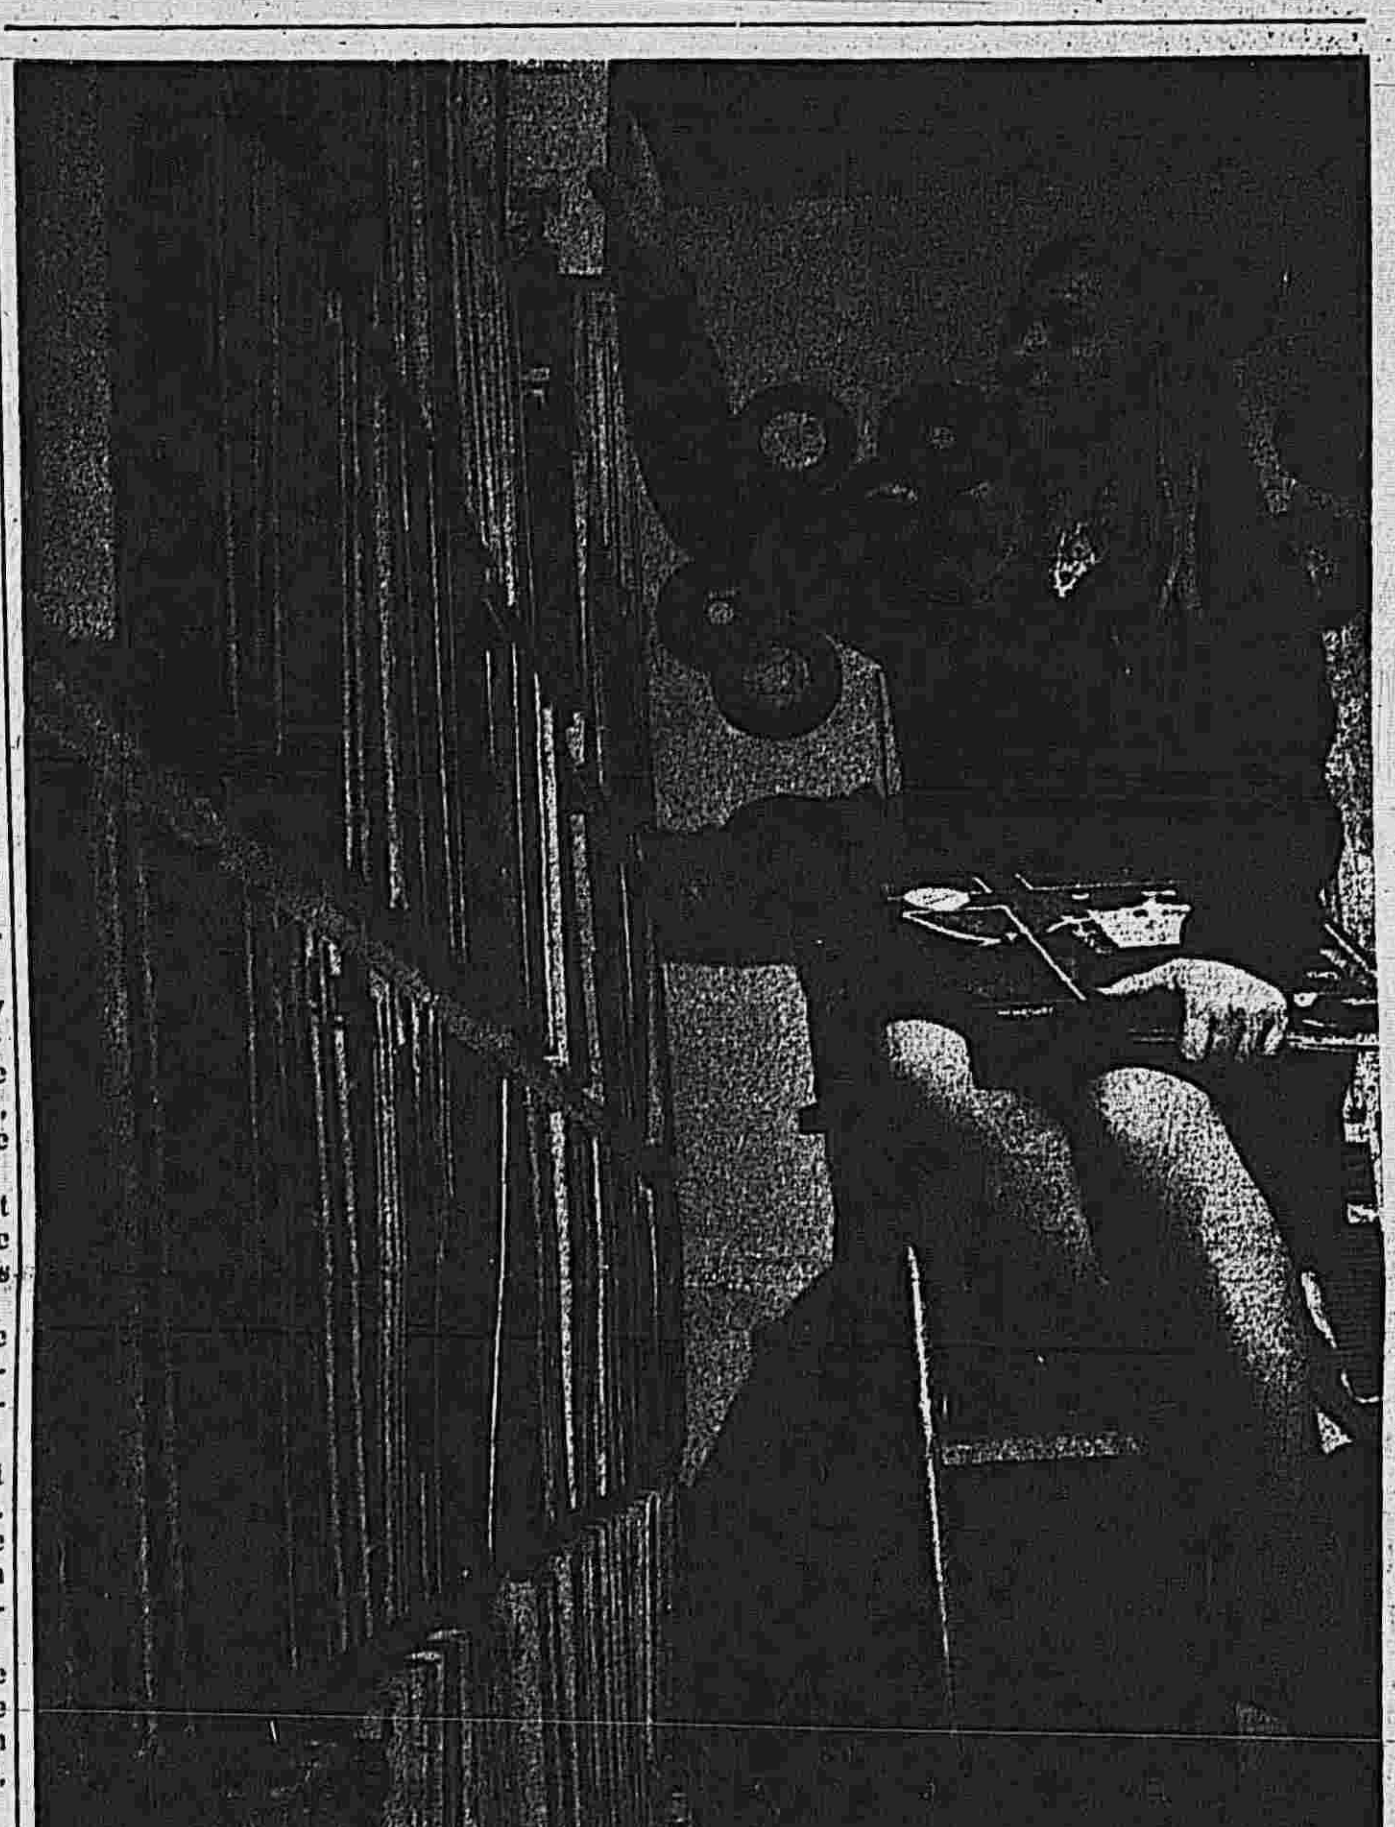

The "trip" usually occurs about 30 to 45 minutes after the glue has been inhaled and the effects may last up to one hour.

One boy killed while under the influence and later could not remember anything about the incident.

Clavey says research shows that using glue often leads to heroin. Studies from the New York police department show glue to be a likely prelude to the habit-forming drugs.

Across the nation, officials are concerned about the growing use of glue for a quick trip, and warn that even an accidental sniffer.

Steel Sets Production Records

More steel was marketed in the United States during 1968 than in any previous year. At the same time foreign steel producers penetrated the U. S. market far deeper than ever before.

The apparent consumption of steel mill products in this country during 1968 rose to an all-time annual record of over 107 million tons. The previous high mark was 100.5 million tons in 1965.

The new record includes imports of foreign steel mill products estimated at 17 to 18 million tons, on top of domestic mills' shipments (about 92 million tons) with a deduction of about 2 million tons for exports of steel.

The imports of foreign steel—some 6 million tons higher than in the preceding year—constituted over 15 percent of the steel consumed in this country during 1968, against 12 percent in 1967 and less than 3 percent in 1968.

Unlimited steel imports are a growing national problem. They threaten our national security.

Public Works Plan OK

A master plan for the Lake County Department of Public Works has been adopted by the Board of Supervisors. The plan outlines areas of priority covering sewer and water facilities over the next five years.

Supt. H. W. Byers of the Public Works Department said, "Realistically, we may not be able to achieve our goals in that period of time, and it is possible that areas of priority might be changed depending upon progress in sections not now anticipated."

The master plan is designed to ultimately bring sewer and water to all residential areas of the county.

On another matter pertaining to public works, the Board awarded a $34,850 contract to Dykes Landscaping of Gurnee for cleaning.

Committee 'Project Vietnam' Gets Many Thanks

In one of its last activities in this special commemorative year, the Illinois Sesquicentennial Committee presented a set of "Target '68" signs to Romanek-Golub & Co. for the 625 North Michigan Avenue office building at a brief ceremony here Friday, Dec. 20.

The replies from those who received Project Vietnam packages during the Christmas season are beginning to roll in. Harry Brechen of the Antioch Post Office said today.

Typical of the letter are those from Herb Spencer and Ouida R.

More, a nurse at the 67th Evacuation Hospital in South Vietnam.

Spencer's letter says: "I would like to send a very sincere and warm thanks for all you have done for me. There couldn't have been a better way for friends to show how much they really care about the men in Vietnam."

"When I received your thoughtful packages and each one of your individual wishes, I was overwhelmed with joy."

"It means more to me than words could ever describe and I shall always remember your kindness, forever."

"So to all of you dear people of Antioch, I wish you a Very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year but I hope yours is a Happy One."

History Made

People throughout the world stopped holding their breath early Friday as America's three Apollo-8 astronauts plunged safely into the Pacific Ocean.

It was an historic first for the United States and once again put our nation in the forefront of space endeavor.

And for the astronauts, Frank Borman, James A. Lovell Jr., and William A. Anders, the flight earned them a place in the history books along with other explorers.

We often tend to take such things as space flights very quietly but this mission had an air of excitement about it from its very beginning.

To circle the moon from any distance it is a feat in itself, but to get within 60 miles and then televise the results to an anxiously waiting world is something else again.

The three astronauts have, by their flight, blazed a trail for the first landing on the moon. They brought back important data that was of vital need in order to accomplish such a mission.

There are those, and we are among them, that sometimes groaned about the enormous amount of money that is being spent on the space program.

We sometimes wondered, and aloud, if such sums couldn't be used to better advantage in our own country for problems here on earth.

But then, as the flight became an accomplishment, we became as excited as the rest.

We add our plaudits to the men of Apollo-8 who took the trip and added to the stature of our country in a time when it was most needed.

Sit Anywhere

President Johnson says that his one ambition before leaving office is to effect the end of the Vietnam conflict.

We wish him all of the success in the world. For we, too, want to see the end of a conflict that many critics say we should not have entered.

We, of course, are not in possession of all the information that goes across a president's desk on such a problem.

But it would seem to us that if we are supplying the manpower and the money for the conflict, it could very easily be ended if we shut off both.

To delay peace talks on the basis of a seating arrangement seems to us to be most ludicrous.

If the South Vietnamese government is really interested in ending the fighting, we think that they would agree to sit anywhere to discuss the problem.

Maybe, as it has been intimated, the South Vietnamese government doesn't want the war to end. They have become so used to our dollars that they might think curtailment of a war would bring about a withdrawal of our money and supplies.

That might not be a bad idea, either.

Powell Sets New Hours For Offices

Secretary of State Paul Powell set a new schedule for 51 downstate Drivers License Examining Stations effective last Monday.

In most cases, one or two days are being added to the weekly schedules. In four cases, the number of working days will remain the same, but will be at a different time of the week.

Secretary Powell said the new schedule is necessary because of the re-examination provision of the law which will become effective January 1 requiring all drivers to be re-examined once every nine years. He estimated this will add 750,000 examinations a year to the present work load.

No changes are announced in Lake County.

Million Mark Passed In GI Bill Program

Participation in the education and training program of the third generation Post-Korean G. I. Bill has passed the one million mark; the Veterans Administration reports.

From the beginning of the Post-Korean G. I. Bill on June 1, 1966, through November of this year, 985,805 veterans with at least two consecutive years of active duty had entered training.

Better than 60 per cent - or 639,722 - entered institutions of higher learning. This compares with 51 per cent under the Korean Conflict G. I. Bill and less than 30 per cent under the World War II program.

Some 36 per cent - or 378,403 - of those in training under the current G. I. Bill entered below college level. Included in this total are 25,334 who have taken flight training.

On-the-job training has attracted 36,639 veterans since October 1967, when this type of training was first authorized.

Currently, 507,658 veterans and 34,217 servicemen are enrolled in the Post-Korean G. I. Bill education and training program. Almost 335,000 - or 62 per cent - are taking college-level training.

Of the more than 176,000 enrolled in below-college level courses, nearly 20,000 were taking flight training as of the end of November.

On-the-job training enrollment at the end of last month totaled nearly 31,000.

Under a new law that went into effect on December 1, veterans with at least 18 months of service after January 31, 1955, are entitled to the maximum of 36 months of VA educational assistance. Those with less than 18 months service are entitled to one-and-one half months of assistance for each month of service.

Veterans now in training will be credited automatically by VA with whatever additional entitlement under this new law may be due them. They need not apply for a new certificate.

Veterans who dropped out of training or who exhausted their previous entitlement but now have additional entitlement because of the new law are being notified of the specific, individual additional educational assistance from VA for which they are eligible. However, they must apply to their nearest VA Regional office for a new certificate of eligibility if they wish to re-enter training under the Post-Korean G. I. Bill.

Training under this program must be completed within eight years after separation from service, or before June 1, 1974, whichever is later.

Veterans are urged to contact their local VA offices for additional information.

Steel Sets....

(Continued from page one) our balance of payments position, the ability of our steel industry to continue its heavy capital expenditures, and the jobs of thousands of the industry's employees.

Government action is needed to help achieve a solution. Domestic steel producers believe that the best answer is legislation establishing a system of quotas based on the recent market shares of the countries exporting steel to the United States.

Basic oxygen steelmaking, a relative newcomer among steel production processes, moved closer to overtaking the long-dominant open hearth process.

In 1968 highly efficient basic oxygen furnaces turned out a record 48.5 million tons of raw steel, or 37 percent of total domestic steel output of around 130 million tons. By comparison the BOFs in 1967 accounted for 41.4 million tons or 33 percent of steel production.

The open hearth process, dominant since it surpassed Bessemer steel production in 1908, was responsible for about 50 percent of total output in 1968, as against the 90 percent or more it contributed in the mid-1950's when the basic oxygen furnaces first came on the American scene.

Electric furnaces continued to increase their share of raw steel output in 1968. They produced 16 million tons, or about 12.3 percent of the total, compared with 15 million tons, or 11.9 percent, in 1967.

Steel labor negotiations were a factor in the expansion of the market and in the pattern of production. Under the impetus of strike-hedge buying, the output of domestic mills reached record heights in the first seven months of the year. The negotiations concluded with a three-year contract described as "one of the most costly ever arrived at in the steel industry. It took effect August 1. Production then declined sharply for two months, but turned up again in the final quarter.

Employment during 1968 averaged 560,000 employees, an increase from 555,000 employed in 1967. Wages and salaries paid in 1968 totaled about $5 billion, compared with $4.7 billion during 1967.

Committee Closes

Jim Howard, President of Meister Brau and Co-Chairman of the Chicago Committee of the state commission set up to pay homage to 150 years of progress and growth in Illinois, presented the signs to Eugene Golub, a principal of Romanek-Golub & Company, and to Larry Kettler, Vice President of the comprehensive Chicago based real estate firm.

The Sesquicentennial Committee has sponsored activities during this special year ranging from parades, dedications, and the start of construction of such prestigious new structures as the 625 North Michigan Avenue building and the Hancock building to the program on the History of the Negro in Illinois presented earlier this year.

The "target '68" signs, which designate buildings started during the Sesquicentennial, will be affixed to the barrier around the 625 North Michigan Avenue building, formerly the site of the Old Italian Court. These signs commemorating the start of the 27-story steel and concrete structure at 625 North Michigan Avenue constitute a "Salute to Illinois."

The new building being erected by Romanek-Golub will feature a new Italian Court complete with prestige shops in the North Michigan Avenue tradition; construction was officially started December 18th with an unusual "Skybreaking" Ceremony.

Romanek-Golub & Co. is a comprehensive real estate organization engaged in acquisition, development, investment, sales, leasing and management and has been involved in a number of multi-million dollar real estate projects in the Chicago area. The most recently completed project is the Harbor House apartment structure at Belmont and Sheridan Road in Chicago.

The firm now manages the famous Churchill on North State Parkway, some 2,000 cooperative units in suburban Chicago, two suburban shopping centers, and owns and operates several office buildings in the Loop area, including the 180 North Michigan Avenue building.

ing a section of the Des Plaines River from Aptakisic Road south to the Lake-Cook County line.

This is a continuing program which began in 1966 and is expected to take another three to four years to complete. Superintendent Byers said this is the first time the river channel has ever been cleaned and most of the work involves removal of trees which obstruct the free flow of water. He said once the entire river is cleaned it will take only minimal maintenance to keep it that way.

Clearing the channel prevents a buildup of back-water and reduces flood conditions.

The current project will complete the southern half of the county at a total cost of $107,825.

Why wait for a gas self-cleaning oven?

Go out and buy one.

The ranges good cooks have been holding out for are here. New gas ranges with self-cleaning ovens. (And everything else.)

The oven cleans itself automatically. Reduces dirt and soil to clean, white, wipe-away ash. And you can even vary the cleaning cycle according to the amount of soil in your oven. But that won't help you cook any better.

What will...are the features of gas ranges. Traditional ones, like precision control of every phase of top-of-stove cooking. And new exciting ones...like automatic cooking and gas infrared broiling.

(Gas infrared broiling units cook quickly...provide eye appealing browning, too.)

See the new gas ranges with self-cleaning ovens at your nearest Northern Illinois Gas Company office or appliance dealer.

March of Dimes Genetics Authority Sees Progress Against Birth Defects

By ARTHUR ROBINSON, M.D.
Director, March of Dimes Birth Defects Center, University of Colorado Medical Center, Denver, Colorado

"First, thread a needle with a long double strand. Then hold it so the needle hangs just above the expectant mother's tummy. If the needle swings in a circle, the baby will be a girl. If it swings back and forth, it's a boy."

Or, "you're carrying the baby high, so it's bound to be a boy. If it was carried low, it would be a girl."

Probably every pregnant woman, even in this enlightened age has heard variations on these predictions.

Amused as we may be at such superstitions, many are still current because, since every version has a 50-50 chance of coming true, they help satisfy a woman's ancient and deep-rooted urge to know everything possible about her unborn child.

Today, it is actually possible to learn much more about future children than the relatively unimportant fact of sex, thanks to a new and increasingly helpful specialty called genetic counseling.

The March of Dimes is particularly interested in advances in genetic counseling because, as understanding of inherited conditions increases, more can be done to prevent or control many of the birth defects which afflict a quarter of a million children born in the United States each year.

Potential parents who are concerned about the chance of their children's inheriting health problems that run in the family, or parents who have one child with a birth defect and want to know whether another may be born with a similar condition, can now be advised far more scientifically than has ever before been possible.

Scarcely 10 years ago, such couples had very few places to turn for help. Vague rules-of-thumb were offered by those whose understanding of the principles of heredity was often hazy, if not wholly inaccurate.

Dr. Arthur Robinson studies a karyotype which is a pictorial representation of the chromosome structure that determines the genetic make-up of the person under study.

curate. Advice ranged from "lightning never strikes twice" to dire predictions which left no hope.

Today's genetic counseling has grown into a full-fledged science which involves advice—based on medical studies and family histories—concerning heredity and particularly the risks of hereditary abnormalities or birth defects. Given certain facts, genetic counselors are often able to tell parents or prospective parents what the chances are that certain inherited defects or disorders will—or will not—appear in their children.

Not all birth defects are of genetic origin—that is, inherited. Some may be caused by maternal infections such as German measles during pregnancy, or by drugs, radiation and other external agents.

But more than 1,400 significant birth defects are known to be inherited. Diabetes is perhaps the most common, while mongolism or Down's syndrome, cystic fibrosis and congenital glaucoma, a disease of the eye, also occur with relatively high frequency. Hundreds of others are comparatively rare, but taken together, they result in a considerable number of severely handicapped or fatally ill children and adults.

But we geneticists are not always prophets of doom. Many people overestimate the risks of having another abnormal child when they or someone in their family has had such a baby. In many instances, we are able to reassure them that the risk they think is great is really very slight. In any case, it is better to know than to guess wildly and perhaps wrongly.

To make sound genetic counseling available to as many Americans as possible, more than 100 March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers across the nation offer counseling or referral to genetic services.

This voluntary health organization, which entered the field of birth defects after the conquest of polio, has also recently published the first complete international directory of genetic services. It is available to practicing physicians on request from the Professional Education Department, The National Foundation, March of Dimes, 800 Second Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Loyola Band To Play At Inauguration

The Loyola Academy Band of Wilmette will represent Illinois in the 1969 Presidential Inaugural Parade in Washington, D. C. on January 20.

The Jesuit High School Band was chosen from among any score musical organizations which had expressed interest in representing the Land of Lincoln in the ceremonies attendant to the Inauguration of Richard M. Nixon as the 37th president of the United States.

Robert E. Bradford, Illinois Presidential Inaugural Coordinator, said that "many superb bands from all over the state expressed their interest in representing Illinois and the disappointment is that each could not have been given a place in the parade."

The Loyola Academy Band will be half of the Illinois contingent in the Inaugural festivities. Each state will be allowed one band and one float in the march which is expected to consume no more than two hours from the time it leaves the Capitol until the last unit passes the White House reviewing stand.

Bradford said the unit was chosen "because it represents a number of communities and nationalities from our state and will be a credit to Illinois in the parade which will be viewed on television by an estimated one-hundred million Americans."

The band has members from 14 communities in the Chicago area, with Polish, German, Slavic, Italian, Irish, English, Lithuanian, French, Ukrainian, Spanish, and Estonian backgrounds.

The theme of the 1969 Inaugural Parade is "Forward Together," a distillation of the "Bring Us Together" theme which President-elect Nixon used in his campaign. Each state was asked to provide a band and a float which could represent the divergent backgrounds of the American population.

Loyola Academy Band, under the direction of Ken Bartosz, will be paying its own expenses for the trip to Washington.

The parade will step off from the Capitol Building at 2 P.M., Monday, January 20, just after Nixon is inaugurated and will follow the historic line of march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House.

Hannah Joins Leukemia Fund Drive

Wayne R. Hannah, Jr., partner in the Chicago law firm of Sonnenschein, Levinson, Carlin, Nath and Rosenthal, and a resident of Winnetka, has been named Chairman of the Legal Division for the 1968-1969 drive of the Leukemia Society of America, Greater Chicago Chapter.

Wayne R. Hannah, Jr.

The announcement was made by Richard T. Lewis, campaign chairman, who said Hannah will work with members of the legal profession in helping the society reach its goal of $250,000 for a three-point program of research, patient aid and community education.

Participating in the annual Leukemia Society of America drive are more than 13,000 persons from Chicago and suburbs, an all-time high for the society.

The Leukemia Society of America is a national volunteer health agency with chapters throughout the country. It concentrates its efforts on the control and eventual eradication of leukemia.

Leukemia is the nation's number one killer of children and second only to lung cancer in its rapid ascendancy as a killer. This year, an estimated 18,000 Americans will die from the disease.

Hannah is a member of the Chicago, Illinois and American Bar Associations and is active in numerous bar association committee activities. He serves as a lecturer for the Institute of Continuing Education of the Illinois Bar Association.

Hannah is Secretary of the New York University Root-Tilden law school scholarship committee for the Seventh Circuit; secretary of the New York University Alumni Club of Chicago; and a member of the board of directors of Firman House, one of eight houses in the United Christian Community Charities.

He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Illinois College, a Doctor of Laws degree from New York University, and a Certificate of French Studies from the University of Bordeaux, France. He served as an officer in the United States Marine Corps during the Korean conflict.

"Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee . . .

"So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God."

Antioch Loses Pair In Rockford Classic

The Antioch Sequoits, playing rather poor basketball, lost two games at the Rockford Classic. On Thursday evening the Sequoits lost to Rockford Auburn 77 to 52, then on Friday morning Chicago Carver came on strong to whip the Sequoits 60 to 35. In the Auburn game, the Sequoits started out very slowly, their full court press was not effective at all. By the end of the quarter, Auburn was ahead 25 to 11. Late in the second quarter the Sequoits rallied a little as they closed the second quarter with nine straight points. This must of took all the fight out of the hapless Sequoits, as in the second half Auburn controlled the whole game. Two reserves Jim Weiss and Jim Polley looked good in defeat. Dave Camp continued to lead the Sequoits in scoring with 18 points. In the consolation bracket, the Sequoits met a hot shooting Chicago Carver team losing 60 to 35. The Carver ball club took charge early and kept complete control the whole game. With Carver hitting 27 of 36 shots for a 75 percent, the Sequoits couldn't keep up the pace. Each team made many mistakes, but the hot shooting of Carver carried them to victory. When asked about the tournament, Coach Andrews stated, "We played poorly, lacked hustle and even quit at times." These are not the trademarks of a championship ball club, we best change our ways, or we are in for trouble. The boys should have learned a lot from the tournament, if nothing else, they should have learned -- no play -- no win. "We play Grant on January 3rd there." "We have a score to settle with Grant. Last year Oler and company beat us 94 to 57 or something like that, what a beating -- sure would like to win the score," added Andrews.

Reporter To Use Snowmobile

Reporter To Use Snowmobile

Eagle River, Wis. -- Canadian reporter, Bob Palmer of Dwight, Ont., believes the way to travel to a snowmobile derby is on a snow vehicle. That's what he will do to attend the annual World's Championship Derby, Jan. 17-19, at Eagle River.

A snowmobile editor for Penn-Red publications, Palmer will make the 600 mile trip accompanied by an associate, Pete Raback, each driving a machine. They cross northern Ontario, enter the United States at Sault Ste. Marie, and reach Eagle River via northern Michigan.

Palmer, along with many reporters and radio-TV personalities from New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, and other Wisconsin cities, will enjoy snowmobiling's most comfortable press headquarters at the world championship event. The sponsoring Eagle River Lions club has installed a heated press box on the north end of the quarter-mile bowl. One side features three big picture windows, giving reporters a clear view of the track below, plus an overall view of the adjacent speed-obstacle course.

Other improvements at the Eagle River site on highway 45, just north of the snowmobile capital of the world, including landscaping and terracing the oval; installation of sturdy cyclone fencing on either end; widening the wooded portion of the speed-obstacle course; and the addition of more concession stands and sanitary facilities.

Class racing on both courses is the major portion of the Eagle River races. Both types of racing can be easily seen in the spacious Pleasure Island area. The World's Championship race is a feature event, a match race between ten top qualifiers, who do their qualifying attempts on Jan. 15 and 16.

The class racing competitors clash for a guaranteed $10,000 prize purse on Jan. 17 and 19. The match race finale, a Sunday, Jan. 19 feature at 3 p.m. will have a purse of its own. The purse is expected to be a minimum $3,000 for the ten lap classic.

The Eagle River field is limited to 500 contestants, 350 in the modified division; 150 in the stocks. The race is sanctioned by the United States Snowmobile Association.

Information and entry blanks are available by writing Peter Anderson, Jr., Eagle River, Wis.

Some People Are Just Living Sick

"Living Sick" is the prevailing condition of poverty in America today according to the findings of a Harris Survey commissioned by the Blue Cross Association and reported in the new journal, "Sources", a documentation of the health problems of the poor.

According to Blue Cross President, Walter J. McNeerney, the survey probed the attitude of the poor about a wide spectrum of health subjects. The results pointed up the necessity to "explore way of making the health care system more efficient and improving its availability to every American, whether affluent or poor," Mr. McNeerney said. Lead off article by Mollie Orabansky, head of Research and Statistics of the Social Security Administration is a head and heart count of the poverty roster.

Other commentaries upon the health condition of the poor, the elderly, the American Indians, the Appalachians, the Spanish speaking are provided by Senator and Mrs. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma; Kimmis Hendricks, Christian Science Monitor correspondent; and science writer, Jay Nelson Tuck.

Blue Cross Editor of "Sources", Richard M. Ralston, in his introduction, says, "We discovered that the poor know where the medical action is today. Blue Cross presents this report on the health problems of the poor as part of its extensive public information program. No solutions are proposed, but new ideas about the financing and organization of health care will be forthcoming in future issues."

The Harris findings note that for two out of every three people in the population, when they are "feeling fine" it means that nothing is the matter with them. But for nearly two out of every three ghetto blacks in the inner city or rural poverty white in Appalachia, "feeling fine" means literally "not as sick as usual."

Whereas three-quarters of affluent Americans when asked to compare the health of their own family with times gone by, answered "better", inner city blacks or Appalachia whites gave diametrically opposite answers.

Of Negro ghetto dwellers interviewed, 51 per cent feel their health has deteriorated or is worse than their parents or grandparents; 29 per cent feel it has not. An even greater sense of discouragement on the part of rural whites was recorded at 63 per cent to 16 per cent.

One reason cited by the poor for a worsening of health today is that proper medical care is more difficult to come by.

From Chicago's South Side, a Negro woman on welfare with six children said, "The doctors charge more money and there's no money to pay the doctor. If you have no money you can't buy medicine either. To get it free, you have to go through red tape and after everything it just isn't worth the bother. So people can't get the right care, so then people are sicker and sicker."

The Harris report summarizes, "Illness and disease are unwelcome visitors to any home. But for the poor, they are constantly with them, a seemingly permanent condition."

One interviewee put it, "I always get a visitation from the miseries."

According to the continuing health survey of the National Center for Health Statistics, serious illness of the poor is appreciably higher than for the affluent. The "Sources" article states that there are four times as many heart conditions as those in the high income group; six times as much mental and nervous trouble; six times as much arthritis and rheumatism; six times as many cases of high blood pressure; over three times as many orthopedic impairments and almost eight times as many visual impairments.

Incidence of serious illness is reportedly two to three times higher for the poor than for the population as a whole. The income breakdown clearly demonstrates that chronic serious illness seems to rise as one approaches poverty.

Conolly Files Bill To Cut COOGA Duty

State Representative John H. Conolly, R-Waukegan, chairman of the Illinois Legislative Council, today prefilled a bill to amend the statute creating the Council in order to delete a reference conferring authority to recommend a legislative program.

Conolly said that the bill carries out a recommendation made in 1967 by the Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly (COOGA). A bill introduced in 1967 by Representative Harold A. Katz, chairman of COOGA, was tabled by Katz at the request of Council members in order to give more time to study the proposal.

Conolly called attention to the fact that the Council had functioned over the years as a research and service agency for members of the legislature. He said it had never, as a body, for-

Methodists Announce Fund Drive

Bishop Thomas M. Pryor of the United Methodist Church announces that a campaign in 470 Northern Illinois churches to raise funds to meet the "challenge of change and reconciliation" particularly in urban areas, will be held in the Epiphany season from January 6 to February 9.

Three hundred and four clergymen from these churches have pledged a total of $125,040 to kick off the fund effort. A group of laymen has pledged an equal amount. The campaign is a part of a nationally proposed legislation, and that, on the contrary, Council members felt that in order to avoid the appearance of possible bias, in Council-sponsored research, the group should not sponsor bills.

The Council consists of the Lieutenant Governor and the four legislative leaders and eight Senators and eight Representatives.

$55,413 in advance gifts to initiate the program.

A motivational film entitled "Hands" has been developed by a Chicago firm (Pinn Productions, Inc., Erie and Wabash, Chicago) and thirty-five copies are being distributed for use in the churches of the seven districts of the Northern Illinois Conference. Many churches will use the film in morning church services during January and early February.

A committee of forty members of the laity and clergy has released a list of five projects that will be aided by the funds. Other projects will be announced as the campaign develops.

In the first list issued by the "Fund for Reconciliation Committee" chaired by Bishop Pryor, are the following ones with a description of each one by Dr. Merlyn W. Northfelt, Program coordinator of the Northern Illinois Conference:

1. WESTSIDE CULTURAL DEVELOPMENT CENTER, Rockford, Illinois. This program involves approximately 100 black young people ranging from 16 to 23. The program emphasizes social and cultural development, leadership training, etc. The project is highly recommended by the Rockford District Superintendent, William White, and the Rockford District Director of Urban Work, Charles Jordan.

2. HOME EFFORTS FOR LOW INCOME PEOPLE (Help). A project located near Crete, Illinois to help approximately 130 low income families to become home owners. The market is principally former migrant workers who have taken jobs in industry. The project has the backing of the Chicago Archdiocese, the National Council of Churches and the Farmer's Home Administration. It is well supervised and will include substantial self help in finishing the pre-cut homes. A board of distinguished lay persons in Chicago Heights and surrounding communities is guiding the project.

3. CBS DOCUMENTARY ON BLACK AMERICA. The purchase of series of films entitled "On Black America" produced by Columbia Broadcasting System. The series includes eight 50-minute films which can help immeasurably in educating our people on the true condition in Black America.

4. MIGRANT RESETTLEMENT. Support for a "Community Effort Organization" working among farm workers in Cook County who have settled out of the migrant stream. This project would be under the sponsorship of a board jointly named by the Cardinal's Committee on Spanish Speaking People, the Church Federation of Greater Chicago and the Illinois Council of Churches.
